

Certification of Residence for Individuals, Partnerships, Companies and Funds

Document last updated July 2017

A. Certification of Residence for Individuals, Partnerships and Companies

Persons (individuals, partnerships, and companies) resident in the State for tax purposes may be in receipt of income from another jurisdiction.

As the extent of the tax charging provisions and tax relieving provisions on a person's liability to tax in respect of income and/or assets may, in many foreign jurisdictions, depend on the tax residence position (i.e. resident or non-resident) of that person, such foreign jurisdictions often require Irish resident persons to obtain certification or clarification from Revenue that they are resident in the State for tax purposes for a relevant tax year.

In general, such certification is requested where a claim is made to the tax authorities in a foreign jurisdiction by an Irish resident person seeking, for example, either exemption from tax or a reduced rate of withholding tax in that jurisdiction under the terms of a double taxation agreement.

In some instances, the foreign jurisdiction provides a form to be completed by the Irish resident person which is to be stamped and signed by Revenue.

Alternatively, Revenue may be requested by the Irish resident person to issue a letter of residence for transmission by the taxpayer to the foreign jurisdiction. Such letters (templates set out in Appendices are certification of a person's Irish residency for the purposes of residency as defined in Ireland's Double Taxation Agreements) or requests for certification (form/letter) are dealt with by the appropriate Revenue district dealing with the person's tax affairs. That district must be satisfied that the individual, or company is resident (or in the case of partnerships, the individual partners are resident) in Ireland for tax purposes for the year in question before certifying the residence position.

From 1 January 2017, letters of residence issued by Revenue's Large Cases Division will be in pdf format and sent via a secure electronic channel. It is anticipated that in due course all letters of residence issued by Revenue will be in pdf format and sent via a secure electronic channel.

- Confirmation if possible that individual is resident for tax in Ireland for the period under enquiry
- Signature of the authorising officer
- District stamp and date
